

Since your arrival was imminent

Hearing your arrival is imminent the rainclouds have withheld the water and the flame tree has held on to her leaves.

The blind beggar is delaying his song, and today, the cop at the intersection, has let the bribes pass.

When the maestro found out about your coming he fumbled his rhythm,
and when the prime minister found out, he made time to make love to his wife.

Golden dreams are crowding my mind
For never before has a new day peeped.
Now my questions are resisting the lure of resolution, and the nation is resisting plague, all in the hopes of your coming.

And behold the forces of evil are folding their paws, and many mediums and conmen are leaving their craft.
But young folks are restless still for darkness gathers in the far ends.
Yet, nearby, that young scoundrel, on the verge of making trouble, has hesitated
since your arrival is imminent.

Since your arrival is imminent,
I haven't sold my pen.